Don't Agree on Weather Expected at Splashdown

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — A weatherman on the scene disagreed with Mission Control meteorologists today and predicted that winds would be too high for a safe landing of the Apollo 9 spaceship in the main Atlantic Ocean recovery zone on Thursday.

A report from the prime recovery ship, the carrier Guadalcanal, said alternate landing plans were being considered. By firing their retro rockets an orbit or two early or late, the astronauts could land elsewhere in the Atlantic and escape the bad weather area 200 miles southwest of Bermuda.

In Houston, weather experts stuck with an earlier forecast that a storm in the area was abating and that conditions looked good for the return of the astronauts to earth Thursday.

"We still plan on landing at the start of the 151st revolution at 10:24 a.m. EST Thursday," said a spokesman for Mission Control. He said a weather reconnaissance plane was surveying the area and that conditions could change.

As weather reports fluctuated, Air Force Col. James A. McDivitt and David R. Scott and civilian Russell L. Schweickart sped through a leisurely eighth day in space.

The flight plan called for picture taking, navigation checks and rest as the astronauts continued to test out the Apollo command ship to prove its durability for a 10-day man to the moon mission.

Astronaut Stuart Roosa, the capsule communicator in mission control, told the spacemen "the weather looks like it's shaping up real well for Thursday morning. It's gonna be pretty good."

Commander McDivitt replied: "That's fine and dandy. Stu, you did good work."

Roosa reported a forecast of "winds of 15 knots and seas four to five feet with a few higher swells."

This is well within the limits of 28-knot winds and eight-foot waves that flight controllers consider acceptable.

Nevertheless, McDivitt quipped: "Keep working on it. That's not down to my specifications."

Planned splashdown time is 10:24 a.m. EST, with the carrier Guadalcanal waiting to retrieve the astronauts.

Mission control had been concerned about high winds and waves that buffeted the landing area southwest of Bermuda Sunday and Monday. If the condition persisted, Apollo 9 would have changed its landing zone by firing its retro-rocket one or two orbits earlier or later.

McDivitt, Scott and Schweickart were in good humor as they were awakened by a radio call at 4:30 a.m.

"Even though it's dark outside, it must be time to get up," Roosa commented. "We let you grab one extra hour but figured you might oversleep on retro morning."

"This is the largest majority in my experience of the formation of four governments," he added.

Meanwhile, the Israeli army announced that Egyptian forces opened fire today with light arms on Israeli positions at three points along the Suez Canal. The canal front had been quiet for 24 hours after massive artillery battles Saturday and Sunday in which the Egyptian chief of staff, Gen. Abdel Mo-neim Riad, was killed.

An army spokesman said one Israeli soldier was wounded in the firing, which he said began at 10:40 a.m. and continued intermittently until after noon.

Leadership Of Israel Assumed

JERUSALEM (AP) — Golda Meir took over the leadership of Israel's government today while Israeli and Egyptian troops battled again with artillery across the Suez Canal.

An army spokesman said Egyptian batteries started shelling area around Mitla, 45 miles northeast of Port Taufiq, in mid-afternoon and the shooting spread to Port Taufiq.

"Our forces returned the fire ... and the fire is continuing," he said.

Radio Cairo broadcast an Egyptian military communique reporting that the Israelis started the shooting bombarding Port Taufiq, Suez and El Shatt with heavy artillery and tank guns.

It was the third day of artillery battles along the canal since Saturday's heavy bombardments which left the Egyptian petrochemical complex at Port Suez—opposite Taufia—aflame.

Mrs. Meir accepted President Zalman Shazar's mandate to succeed the late Levi Eshkol as prime minister of Israel and form a new government.

"I am ready now to give an affirmative answer so as not to delay by even one hour the presentation of a new Cabinet to the Knesset," Israel's top woman politician told Shazar.

She did not say if she would make any changes in the 21-man Cabinet Eshkol headed until his death Feb. 26 of a heart attack.

Mrs. Meir, 70, was nominated by the dominant Labor party last Friday. Wearing a black woolen dress and a square silver brooch pinned to her left shoulder, she told the 79-year-old president and a battery of newsmen and photographers: "It is my fervent wish that it will be my lot to achieve what we all want—peace with the Arabs."

Mrs. Meir is expected to present her government to the Knesset for a vote of confidence Thursday. Shazar said 106 of the 120 Knesset members had expressed support for Mrs. Meir.

"This is the largest majority in my experience of the formation of four governments," he added.

After entering his plea of guilty to first-degree murder he stood up and told the judge he disagreed with the theory that no conspiracy was linked with the assassination.

Under questioning by the court, however, Ray said he was still pleading guilty.

After being sentenced, the prisoner was returned to his maximum security cell in the Shelby County Jail.

Early today he was secretly taken from his cell and shuttled some 200 miles to the state penitentiary at Nashville to begin serving his 99-year sentence.

A Justice Department spokesman in Washington said Ray's plea of guilty had not closed the books on its original investigation of a possible conspiracy.

Atlanta, Coretta King, the widow, said Ray's plea of guilty "cannot be allowed to close the case, to end the search for the many fingers which helped pull the trigger."

She added: "For the moment, we have been spared a trial which would compel us to relive the fearful tragic events of his death. But we realize that this is but a respite."

But, Mrs. King continued, "Several important items will be taken up at the Sedalia School Board meeting at 7:30 o'clock tonight at Smith-Cotton. Resolutions will be called for on the school board election April 1, the setting of a school tax levy, and bids will be opened on extensive electronic and visual aid supplies, among other items of business, according to Dr. T. J. Norris, superintendent."

Critics Don't Agree Ray Solely Guilty

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — The widow of Martin Luther King Jr. says his assassination was the work of more than one person and is still on the conscience of the nation despite the sentencing of James Earl Ray to 99 years in prison.

The Rev. Ralph David Abernathy, who took over leadership of Dr. King's civil rights organization, says he is convinced by Ray's admission of guilt itself that the murder was part of a conspiracy.

"There are the unanswered questions," comments author William Bradford Huie, who wrote Ray's biography while Ray was awaiting trial on the murder charge.

But while these and other dissenting voices were being heard Dist. Atty. Philip M. Canale reiterated at a post sentencing interview Monday night that the state had uncovered no evidence at all of conspiracy.

Canale said the sums of money Ray spent hopping around the United States and Canada and finally to Europe, which seemed to some suspiciously large, probably came from the assassin's own efforts as a smuggler and holdup man.

Ray "got money from several sources," Canale told newsmen, and saved a "fairly substantial sum of money while in prison" in Missouri before the escape which led ultimately to King's death by a rifle bullet on the balcony of a Memphis motel.

Canale said his investigators believed Ray mailed the money out of the prison before he escaped.

Canale added that the investigators believe Ray obtained funds in "one armed robbery and maybe two robberies in Montreal," one in London, and profited by smuggling jewelry and drugs into the United States after his prison break.

Ray's statements in court Monday confused many who heard them.

After entering his plea of guilty to first-degree murder he stood up and told the judge he disagreed with the theory that no conspiracy was linked with the assassination.

Under questioning by the court, however, Ray said he was still pleading guilty.

After being sentenced, the prisoner was returned to his maximum security cell in the Shelby County Jail.

Early today he was secretly taken from his cell and shuttled some 200 miles to the state penitentiary at Nashville to begin serving his 99-year sentence.

"All concerned people must press the State of Tennessee and the U.S. government to continue until all who are responsible for this crime are apprehended."

"Not until then," the widow said, "can the conscience of the nation rest."

"The trial," said Ray's biographer, Huie, "went according to script."

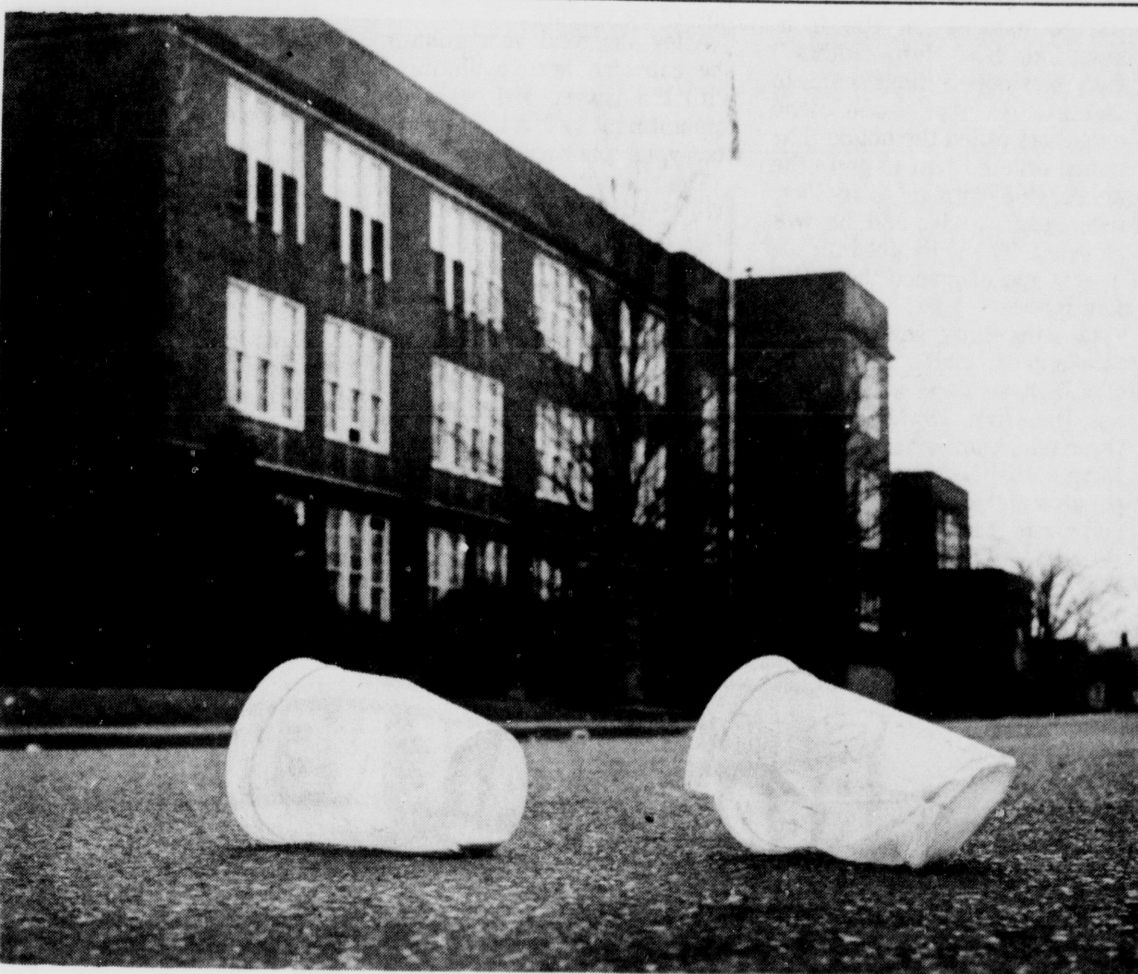

"I'm not surprised that Ray got up in court and said what he did about a conspiracy. He's said all along there was another man in the rooming house from which the shot was fired."

Many Memphis residents expressed relief that Ray's day in court was over.

There had been some apprehension that a prolonged trial might arouse racial feelings in the city and both police and sheriff's deputies had been put on 12-hour shifts.

Litterbugs Spoil Area Near S-C

By RALPH JONES
Democrat-Capital Staff Writer

"Living in litter" is probably the best way to describe the situation around Smith-Cotton High School, particularly in the areas between the school and nearby eating establishments.

Litter is strewn everywhere — on private property, on school property, on city property and in the middle of the streets, with Massachusetts, which is closed off during the noon hour, receiving more than its share of the load.

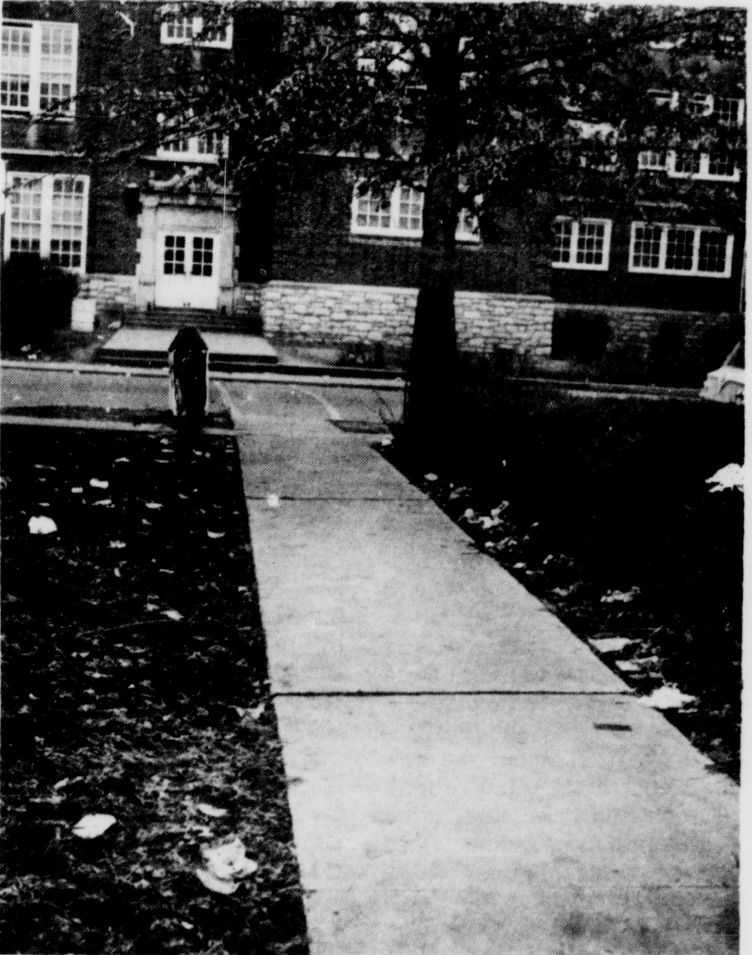

The offenders are the students themselves, according to the police, who toss away food wrappers on their way back to school after purchasing food at nearby eating places, despite the fact that suitable waste containers are provided for their use at the eating places.

Numerous complaints have been registered at the police station — some from persons residing in the area, and some from passers-by who have noticed the condition of the area around the school. Residents have also complained of damage to their property, of smutty phrases being written on buildings and on trash receptacles, in addition to the general littered condition of the grounds.

Who is to blame for the littered condition of the area? The food merchants, the police department, the parents, school officials or the pupils themselves?

The finger of blame point most directly at the students.

Hearnes Sees Recourse

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Gov. Warren E. Hearnes said today he thought the Legislature could pass an individual income tax bill carrying a reasonable rate increase.

He said the rate would be a legislative matter and in any case "there is going to have to be some compromise if any legislation is to be passed."

The governor was asked about the status of his tax proposals at his news conference in view of the fact some of the bills appear to be stalled.

He said he was at a complete loss to understand why there seemed to be more opposition to proposals to speed up income and sales tax collection than to the bills increasing income tax rates.

Ann Landers

Letters Comment On Ann's Reply

Dear Ann: This is for the woman whose husband loves to put on her wig and high heels and false eyelashes "for fun." So she thinks he is normal, does she? Well, I had a son-in-law who thought the same thing. Furthermore, he convinced my daughter that it was a harmless little game they were playing. She went along with it and even gave him girly gifts for his birthday.

After ten years of marriage and three children, he wasn't satisfied to keep the secret between the two of them. He started dancing on the front lawn in his "fun clothes." People stopped their cars to watch. Pretty soon the neighbors called the police. The police ordered him to go in the house. One word led to another, fists began to fly and he was arrested. The story got into the papers and disgraced the entire family.

Dancing Boy is now going to a psychiatrist, which is what he should have done a long time ago. So, Ann, if the wives of these nuts know what's good for them, they'll recognize this peculiar behavior for what it is and see to it that their husbands get help. — ORLANDO

Dear Or: Thanks for a report from the front line — or perhaps I should say from the front lawn. The following letter represents another viewpoint.

Dear Ann Landers: Your column does a world of good. You touched on a topic recently that helped me tremendously. I'm one of those men who likes to dress in women's clothes.

Shortly before you printed the letter signed "Bobette's Wife," my wife discovered my private cache of ladies' wear. She became hysterical, accused me of being a homosexual, and made an appointment to see a lawyer about a divorce.

After she read your column she canceled her appointment with the lawyer and made an appointment with a doctor. She took your column along.

The doctor said you were right — that most transvestites are not homosexuals. They enjoy dressing in female attire but have no desire to engage in homosexual activity. Some homosexuals are, however, transvestites, which is what causes the confusion.

Knowing full well that I cannot curb my desires, my wife now leaves the house one evening a week while I play lady. I prefer to be alone and unobserved and she respects my wishes. I always make sure the children are asleep. I draw the draperies and do not answer the doorbell.

Since I've been able to carry out my little charade with my wife's knowledge and approval I feel 100 per cent better. My nerves are settled and I'm off tranquilizers. Thank you for being broad-minded. — ANN'S FAN

Dear Fan: Lest you leave a wrong impression, I'd like to repeat my original statement. Transvestites are not necessarily homosexuals, but normal they ain't.

If your wife understands your problem and accepts it, it's nobody else's business — provided, of course, you stay in the house and off the front lawn.

How will you know when the real thing comes along? Ask Ann Landers. Send for her booklet "Love Or Sex And How To Tell The Difference." Send 35 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Bag Boys Are Fired At Base

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army has sacked a squad of grocery bagboys at a nearby post and will replace them with civil servants who will cost the government about $123,000 a year.

The bagboys, part of an anti-poverty group from Washington, were fired after a series of complaints from military housewives who shop at the base supermarket at Ft. Myer, Va.

The shoppers said the boys, mostly high school dropouts with police records from Washington's slum areas, were rude and didn't do their work properly. One woman complained that she found her groceries soaked in vinegar after she corrected a bagboy about his packing.

The bagboys, were paid $1.60 an hour. The pay came partially from tips, with the sponsoring group, the United Planning Organization, making up the difference.

The Army will replace the fired bagboys with 28 civilians to be hired through civil service and paid $2.11 an hour, according to Leonard Sims of the Military District of Washington.

Spokesmen for the anti-poverty group said the problems with the women shoppers weren't all the boys' fault.

Tour Labor Camp

Sen. Jacob Javits (R-N.Y.) is followed by Sen. George McGovern (D-S.D.) as they dodge laundry while touring a migrant labor camp Monday near Immokalee, Fla., in the heart of the Everglades. The

Rebuffed By Supreme Court, Newspapers Look to Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rocked back on its heels by the Supreme Court, the newspaper industry turned today to Congress to save joint operating agreements between editorially competing dailies in 21 cities.

The Court's 7-1 disapproval of the two Tucson, Ariz., newspapers' business department merger cast a long shadow of doubt on similar pacts. Their survival may rest on a drive for new legislation.

And at least one senator, Democrat Daniel K. Inouye of Hawaii, said he will introduce a bill Wednesday to authorize joint commercial operations of newspapers if one partner is deemed failing.

But it is anybody's guess whether Inouye's bill or others already introduced in this 91st Congress will get any farther than proposed legislation that died last year.

The idea is to provide an anti-trust exemption for commercial pacts between otherwise competing newspapers if one of the papers' survival is doubtful.

The industry maintains the public benefits because an editorial voice that would be stifled by financial death is kept alive.

In Tucson, operators of the Daily Star and the Daily Citizen agree in 1940 to merge their production, circulation, business and advertising departments for 25 years. In 1953 the agreement was extended until 1990.

Justice William O. Douglas' opinion for the court found obvious antitrust violations and said an exemption could not be justified through use of what is called the failing company defense.

That is, Douglas said, there was no indication owners of the Citizen were contemplating a liquidation prior to the joint agreement. "There is no evidence," he said, "that the joint operating agreement was the last straw at which Citizen grasped."

Douglas described the failing company defense as "a judicially created doctrine." And without actually inviting passage of legislation he noted that Congress had taken no action on any of the proposed bills.

Reflecting on the ruling, Jack R. Howard, president of Scripps-Howard newspapers, said enactment of new legislation is imperative. He said operations such as the one in Tucson have ensured editorial competition in cities, in some cases for more than three decades.

Arthur B. Hanson, general counsel for the American Newspaper Publishers Association, said ANPA will seek to have Congress enact "appropriate remedial legislation."

And Richard J. MacLaury, a San Francisco lawyer who argued for the Tucson newspapers in the Court, said in a telephone interview:

"The Court apparently felt that it was required by precedent to declare the Tucson agreement invalid. This leaves the publishers no alternative but to ask Congress to adopt new legislation which will enable two newspapers to continue publishing in rivalry with each other not only in Tucson but in 21 other cities throughout the country."

But Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., said the court ruling should signal the end of the Senate controversy over the failing newspaper act.

"That ought to take care of that issue," said Hart, chairman of the Senate antitrust and monopoly subcommittee.

Hart has from the outset opposed any antitrust law exemption for commercial consolidation of newspapers.

Inouye's bill, virtually identical to one sponsored in the last Congress by former Sen. Carl Hayden, D-Ariz., would define a failing newspaper as one which "appears unlikely to remain or become a financially sound publication."

It would waive antitrust objections if one or more of the papers involved in a joint operation met that definition.

Inouye said the Supreme Court ruling "came as no surprise," and demonstrates the reasons he wants Congressional action.

The Honolulu newspapers, the Advertiser and Star-Bulletin, have a joint commercial operating agreement. "Many of us are convinced that without remedial legislation, Hawaii may find itself with one major newspaper," Inouye said.

He argued, as did a parade of witnesses before Hart's subcommittee during extended hearings on the issue, that joint commercial agreements are in some cases necessary to provide divergent editorial voices.

It was the Tucson case which originally led to the Hayden proposal. This produced the Senate hearings—which filled seven volumes and ran some 3,400 pages.

Hero's Medal Refused By Widow

WASHINGTON (AP) — A widow refused for months to accept a Medal of Honor awarded her husband for bravery in Vietnam, then consented to receive it only in secret.

Mrs. Mary Jo Sargent of Hampton, Va., widow of Army 1st Lt. Rupert Leon Sargent, was given the nation's highest military award by a brigadier general who called at her home Monday, Pentagon sources said. Lt. Sargent was killed in 1967 when he fell on two enemy hand grenades.

She wanted no publicity and opposed accepting the medal for religious reasons, her mother said. Both are Jehovah's Witnesses.

The unusual incident was a source of keen embarrassment and frustration for the Army.

Officials said they could not recall a similar instance, but in 1952 Halsey McGovern refused to accept a Medal of Honor awarded posthumously to one of his sons killed in Korea, contending President Harry S. Truman was "unworthy to confer" it.

"I think we were at the point once where we just wanted to pack up the award and mail it to her," one Army officer commented.

Mrs. Sargent could not be reached for comment.

The lieutenant's mother, Mrs. Janet Sargent, said in Hampton that both she and her daughter-in-law opposed the award because of their beliefs as Jehovah's Witnesses. She would not explain further.

Generally, Jehovah's Witnesses believe in allegiance only to God and not to organized governments or religion.

Pentagon officers said they understood Sargent's mother opposed his being in the military. Their records showed he was not a draftee, but volunteered in 1959 and became an officer in 1965.

Military sources in Washington said records indicated former President Johnson approved the medal for Sargent in July 1968.

Because of the family's reluctance to accept it, the award had to be approved again when President Nixon took office.

In accordance with the widow's wishes, the Army planned no announcement of any sort about Sargent's award even though it was going into the records as the 75th Medal of Honor given in the Vietnam war and would have been impossible to conceal.

The text of the citation was provided to newsmen after word of the secret ceremony got around. It still bore the notation: "No distribution will be made of this release—per request of next of kin."

The citation said Sargent, then 29, was led by a former Viet Cong soldier on March 15, 1967, to a reported weapons cache in a tunnel in a deserted village in South Vietnam's Hau Nghia Province.

Sargent saw that the tunnel was booby trapped.

An attempt to destroy the booby trap failed, but enemy soldiers were flushed out. One hurled two hand grenades into the midst of Sargent's men.

"Lt. Sargent fired three shots at the enemy, then turned and unhesitatingly threw himself over the two grenades," the citation said.

"He was mortally wounded, and his two companions were lightly wounded when the grenades exploded."

"By this courageous and selfless act of exceptional heroism, he saved the lives of the platoon sergeant and forward observer and prevented the injury or death of several other nearby comrades."

"Lt. Sargent's actions were in keeping with the highest traditions of the military service and reflect great credit upon himself and the United States Army."

An Army officer in the Pentagon, reading the citation, said he felt Mrs. Sargent had no right to try to keep her husband's Medal of Honor a secret.

TV Auction By Jaycees Is March 29

The Sedalia Jaycees announced that the 13th annual Jaycee-TV Auction to be held March 29, on KMOS-TV Channel 6.

As part of their community development program, the Jaycees have sponsored this annual event with all proceeds going to the Children's Therapy Center.

Nevin Almquist and Al Letourneau, co-chairmen of the auction, stated, "It is the continuing support of the Sedalia merchants and the people of Sedalia and Pettis County that assures the yearly success of this project. From the merchandise received thus far from the Sedalia merchants, we feel this year's auction will be a great success."

Clean Rivers Meeting Set By Hickel

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of the Interior Walter J. Hickel has called conferences in Iowa to review water quality standards for the Missouri and Mississippi River basins.

One conference will be held April 8 in Davenport to consider standards on the Mississippi River basin. The other will be in Council Bluffs April 15 on the Missouri River Basin.

Hickel said Iowa's standards for interstate waters were not satisfactory.

He said they were lacking in three areas:

—Treatment requirements and implementation plan for waste discharges.

—Requirements for disinfection of waste discharges.

—Temperature criteria for interstate waters other than the Mississippi and Missouri Rivers.

BEER—toast to America's economy

The brewing industry is a massive and dynamic part of the national economy. Each year it pours billions of dollars into commerce and government.

- $1.4 billion in state and federal excise taxes.
- $3 billion to employees, suppliers and distributors.
- $990 million in agricultural products and packaging materials.

The brewing industry is a proud contributor to America's prosperity.

Be forewarned: the cost of hospitalization is constantly going up. And even though it's certainly a warranted rise, that doesn't do much for the old family budget when an unexpected accident or illness occurs.

Be forearmed: this little ounce of prevention is probably the best cure for unexpected health care expenses there is.

Because it gets you into the hospital without having to make a deposit or credit check. And, when you leave, there are no claim forms to fill out because we pay basic benefits direct to member hospitals and doctors. (Either way, there's no paper work.)

The Blue Cross-Blue Shield card. It's small, but it's mighty.

OBITUARIES

George W. Knox

George W. Knox, 59, Route 5, died at his home Monday night after apparently suffering a heart attack.

Mr. Knox was born in Pettis County in the Clifton City community, Aug. 8, 1909, the son of the late Charles E. and Lula Mae Gerhinger Knox. He lived all of his life there, where he was engaged in farming.

One of a family of five children, he was preceded in death by one sister, Mrs. David Cramer, and one brother, Chester Charles Knox, who died May 14, 1965.

He is survived by one brother, John Knox, Route 5, and a nephew, Floyd Knox, Sedalia, who he reared.

The body was taken to the Ewing Funeral Home, where funeral arrangements are incomplete.

ton Battle Jr., of Criminal Court, who presided at the hearing, had this to say:

"While it is not always the case, my 35 years in these criminal courts have convinced me that in the great majority of cases, Hamlet was right when he said 'For murder, though it have no tongue, will speak with most miraculous organ.'"

The judge said no proof of a conspiracy sufficient to indict anybody but Ray had been found, but noted:

"Of course, this is not conclusive evidence that there was no conspiracy." And he pointed out that "in this state there is no statute of limitations in capital cases such as this" if evidence turned up against somebody else later.

Those who clung to a conspiracy theory still were vexed by many questions. For example:

—How did Ray pay his way?

—Where did he get the estimated $10,000 he spent between the time he escaped from the Missouri State Penitentiary in April 1967 until he was captured in London last June 8?

—How did Ray pick the rooming house from where the fatal shot was fired, across the street from the motel, and how did he know the best vantage point would be from a hallway bathroom window?

—How did Ray know that King would stay at the Lorraine, operated by Negroes, instead of the white-operated Rivermont, where he had stayed previously?

—How did he know King would be on the balcony?

—If there were no conspiracy, as the state contends, why did Ray plead guilty?

Over Site Choice

CONCORD, Mass. (AP) — Concord citizens are up in arms again.

This time it is over seizure by the Middlesex County commissioners of Heywood Meadow as a site for a new courthouse.

The meadow is next to the preserved home of Ralph Waldo Emerson, and alongside the road over which the British soldiers marched to the "rude bridge" and the battle green at Lexington.

The town had offered other sites for the courthouse, and officials said the commissioners filed an eminent domain notice on the meadow without any advance notice.

The town's immediate reaction was unanimous adoption of a resolution condemning the commissioners' action.

New Phase In Enemy Offensive

SAIGON (AP) — Heavy fighting raged today at four points northwest of Saigon, and Viet Cong forces shelled more than 60 allied bases and towns, including the old imperial capital of Hue.

U.S. officers said the increased action signaled the start of the third phase of the spring offensive the enemy launched Feb. 23. They said the period from now until Saturday was a "critical one," and the alert status at some American bases was increased.

Military analysts said Saigon still appeared to be the Viet Cong's main objective. They said the main bodies of four enemy divisions—poised to the west, northwest, north and northeast of the capital—had made no serious move toward the city but that local regional forces were "gravitating" from the south and east toward the capital military district.

"When it's time to attack Saigon," said one analyst, "the sub-regional forces will spearhead the attack, while the forces from the divisions will try to maneuver at the opportune moment and try to follow in."

The four fights in which American forces reported killing 120 North Vietnamese troops centered in a relatively small area of Tay Ninh Province, as did a large number of the rocket and mortar attacks. U.S. casualties in the ground fighting were reported as five killed and 20 wounded, all in a strong infantry attack on an American base 53 miles northwest of Saigon.

The North Vietnamese 1st Division sent about 400 troops against a patrol base of the U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division called Landing Zone Grant. Reports from the field said about 50 North Vietnamese were killed in the second attempt in four nights to overrun the base under cover of a heavy barrage from 120mm mortars.

The Guadalcanal rode out winds up to 45 miles an hour and waves of 10 to 12 feet early this week. During a practice recovery exercise, a team from the ship lost three spacecraft flotation bags and a life raft.

Winds of 60 miles an hour forced closing of the Manned Spacecraft Network's Bermuda tracking station.

The weather was so bad the astronauts said they could see whitecaps from more than 100 miles up.

Weather officers aboard the Guadalcanal foresaw better conditions for Thursday but could not make a firm forecast.

Propellant experts, meanwhile, came up with a tentative explanation for red caution lights that mysteriously flashed in the Apollo 9 cabin during a firing of the main engine last Tuesday.

The astronauts duplicated conditions during another firing Monday and again got a warning signal, despite the fact that the rocket operated perfectly.

Litterbugs

Drive-ins provide trash containers and urge their customers to deposit their used containers in the receptacles; employees also pick up the litter around the establishments, and sometimes from adjoining streets. School officials have no control over the students while they are off the school grounds, but do urge pupils to keep the area clean. So do parents.

Police officers answer complaints and keep an eye out for litter law violators. However, in questioning some of the pupils, they get some interesting answers.

Detective-Sergeant Perry Franklin, in questioning groups of suspected violators, learned that the pupils are not aware of the possible consequences surrounding littering. One pupil stated he was "protected" by the juvenile code. Another stated he could not be brought to trial because he was under 16 years of age. Others believed they would not be caught.

Such beliefs are based on misinformation.

Actually, juvenile-age students — those 16 and under — are "protected" only to the extent that the juvenile authorities are prohibited from releasing juvenile records to the public. Actually, juveniles caught in the act of littering — on private property, school property or city property — can be taken to juvenile court and punished as the juvenile authorities deem appropriate, within the limits of the law.

Pupils past juvenile age can be arrested and charged as adults, under city anti-litter laws, and punished under the limits of the law.

In Sedalia, the law provides for a fine of up to $100 and 90 days in jail, or both, as determined by the court.

Lease on Life For Landing At Capital

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — The Missouri Senate bowed today to the history buffs and agreed time should be allowed to see whether Lohman's Landing can be preserved as a historical site.

Last week the Senate defeated the resolution that would have put off destruction of the old building on the Missouri River waterfront here to provide more space for a state-owned parking area. Today the Senate sponsor of the House-passed resolution, Sen. Omar H. Avery, D-Troy, asked for its reconsideration.

Once more, Sen. A. Clifford Jones, R-Clayton, criticized the move as a waste of time. He said the old building had no historical significance and the whole thing would wind up costing the state money.

The Senate reconsidered the resolution on a 29-1 vote and then adopted it 29-2.

That means the Cole County Historical Society will have time to study the possibility of rehabilitating and preserving the structure. It served over the years as a warehouse, restaurant and hotel and storage shed in more recent times.

French Students Must Give Majority Opinion

"As students we are instructed to give the majority opinion of the people of France rather than our own opinion," Jean Louis Lavole, American Field Service exchange student from Rennes, France explained in answering a question concerning the popularity of President Charles DeGaulle of France at the noon meeting of the Rotary Club at Hotel Bothwell.

Then in answer to the question, Lavole stated, "DeGaulle is recognized as the best president France has ever had, and people 45 years old or older vote for him blindly and look upon him as the deliverer of France, but the younger people do not now have this regard for him."

He observed further in reply to a question, "that French women are more fashion conscious than American women and that fashions in France change about every two months and the women change their wardrobes about that often." That clothes in France are much cheaper than they are here was a further observation he made.

In reply to a question on French cooking, he remarked that the French people spent about two hours over lunch and ate in three or four courses. One course was generally a fish appetizer, followed by a meat course, a cheese course and a dessert. The appropriate wines with each course were served. In a subject conclusion remark he stated the French people need a two hour lunch period in order to work in a nap before they returned to their duties.

Preceding his question and answer period, Lavole showed slides of his family, of his native city, Rennes, a city of 300,000 in the center of Brittany, a peninsula in northwest France of the south area of France where the gypsies live and where horses are raised and the French cowboys live, as well as many scenes of famous places in Paris.

Lavole is a senior in Smith-Cotton High School this year. He is living with Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Gray, 1022 West Seventh Street, Mr. Gray was a guest of the meeting.

Charles Hurtt, program chairman, introduced the speaker.

Dr. A. L. Walter, who recently returned from Houston, Texas, where he underwent surgery, was welcomed back to the club by Dr. Stanley Fisher, club president.

Guests introduced by Donald Barnes were, Mike Waldeck, with Aubrey Case, Larry McRoy with K. U. Love and student guests Bill Straka and Dan Fisher, from Sacred Heart High School, and John Rissler and Terry Siron, from Smith-Cotton High School.

Invocation was given by Wayne Stackhouse and Jim Edwards was song leader.

MEMBER, THE ORDER OF THE GOLDEN RULE

More Resistance From South Is Reported to School Mixing

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal Office of Civil Rights is encountering renewed resistance by Southern school boards to its desegregation efforts.

A source close to Ruby G. Martin said the resistance was a factor in her decision to refuse re-appointment as director of the civil rights office.

Dr. Lloyd R. Henderson, acting director of the Office of Civil Rights, said 220 districts—the heaviest number since 1965 when enforcement of the 1964 Civil Rights Act was still young—face possible hearing for non-compliance.

"A good many may come into compliance before hearings are scheduled," he said.

The 220 districts, most of them in South Carolina, Georgia, Arkansas and Texas, were among 340 asked last August to submit plans for "terminal" desegregation. The other 120 districts have complied.

In contrast, similar letters went out to 317 districts in January and February of 1968, and all but about 50 complied, Henderson said.

The Nixon administration offered Mrs. Martin, a Democrat appointed to head the Civil Rights Office by President Johnson, a pay increase to stay on, but she declined. She left the government Friday, and Henderson, another Johnson appointee, took over as acting director.

Mrs. Martin, who is a Negro, said only that she felt she could do more for her race outside the government. The informed source said, however, that she was apprehensive about GOP campaign statements which she interpreted as indicating to the South that the Republicans would move more slowly on desegregation.

Her apprehension was heightened, the source said, by statements made by Secretary Robert H. Finch of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, which administers the Office of Civil Rights.

Finch, while emphasizing that he would enforce the law, has distinguished between segregation and discrimination, has said he was reviewing desegregation guidelines, and has been critical of some HEW agents for "overzealousness" in enforcing desegregation.

Both Finch and President Nixon have referred to a cut off of federal funds to non-complying districts as "the ultimate weapon."

The source said that Mrs. Martin felt the reference was unwise because some districts might be led to believe they have more time before an "ultimate weapon" would be used against them.

Henderson said part of the reason for the slow response to the August letter was "the districts we're dealing with now are in many respects tougher."

gro students and it frightens the school officials, who fear desegregation will mean creation of private school systems."

The acting director, said part of the problem was "confusion" over federal desegregation standards, including an unsuccessful attempt last year in Congress to sanction "freedom of choice" desegregation plans.

'Unisex' Hair Style Show Features Male Fashions

NEW YORK (AP) — The scene backstage at the annual hairstyle show here was just a little bit confusing.

The models, as usual, were busy with final touches—a bit of spray here, a bit of teasing there.

There was only one catch. Half the models were men.

Once men began letting their locks grow long, it was only a matter of time before they began getting coiffures—instead of cuts—from stylists—instead of barbers.

And time ran out Monday. Hairdressers from around the country joined in presenting a "unisex" show—matching his and her hairdos and costumes.

Women worried about being eclipsed by their peacock-like mates can take some consolation from the fact that most of the hairdressers admitted they designed the girl's coiffure first, then tried to adapt it for the male model.

There were three basic silhouettes for women this spring:

—The "Coco Chanel," reminiscent of the 1930's, featuring soft, full curls around the face, medium length hair and a smooth crown. Variations included center parts, a wave over one eye or all-over curls.

The source close to Mrs. Martin said she believed desegregation momentum would be lost "for at least a year" unless there is "a clear statement or some very clear actions."

Less than 10 days after taking office Finch cut off federal funds to five Southern districts, but gave them 60 days of grace to work out an acceptable desegregation plan. One has since filed a plan approved by the HEW.

Finch took tougher action Feb. 13, cutting off federal funds to three districts while making no provision for a grace period.

The secretary has said he would follow a policy "consistent with the interpretation the President repeatedly expressed in the campaign." He cited remarks made by Nixon Sept. 19.

At that time, Nixon said, "When the Office of Education goes beyond the mandate of Congress and attempts to use federal funds not just for the purpose of avoiding segregation but for the purpose of integration in positive ways—busing and the like—with that I disagree. And I do not believe federal funds should be used for that purpose."

Nixon again referred to the issue at a Feb. 6 news conference when he said:

"If freedom of choice is found to be simply a subterfuge to perpetuate segregation, then funds should be denied to such a school system. If a freedom of choice plan, however, is found to be one which actually is bringing an end to segregation, then a freedom of choice plan, in my opinion, is appropriate and should receive funds."

King's Birthday School Holiday

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Philadelphia public school system has added another day to its list of holidays—the anniversary of the birth of the late Dr. Martin Luther King.

The Board of Education, acting on requests from both Negroes and whites over the last several months, unanimously approved Monday a resolution setting aside Jan. 15 as a day to honor the memory of the slain civil rights leader.

Asks Further Probe

The Rev. Ralph Abernathy, at a news conference in Atlanta Monday, said authorities should continue investigations into a possible conspiracy in the death of Martin Luther King. Abernathy said, "The admission of guilt by James Earl Ray cannot be allowed to obscure the real assassin." (UPI)

Sell Tickets For Show

Tickets for "Hello, Dolly" are selling well, according to Chamber of Commerce officials, who said Tuesday that many good seats remain, however.

The $5 tickets will provide seats in two front sections closest to the stage, it was pointed out by a Chamber spokesman, with $4 seats immediately behind that and holders of $3 tickets being seated in the bleachers at the back.

The National Tour Company production of the Broadway hit will be staged at 8:30 p.m. Saturday in the Agriculture Building at the State Fairgrounds.

Tickets are available at C. W. Flower, J. C. Penney Co., LeRoy's, Consumers Market and the Chamber office.

"Hello, Dolly" is sponsored locally by the Chamber, in conjunction with the Sedalia Council on the Arts.

Sign Contracts In California School System

CALIFORNIA — Apparently only three teachers in the California school system have not return signed contracts to the board of education for the coming school year.

Of the three, two plan to attend a college or university, while the third, Hugo Hammond, driver's education instructor and football coach, accepted a position in another school system.

Returning unsigned contracts besides Hammond were Miss Ance Jean Hatfield and Douglas Taylor.

Teachers who returned signed contracts include: Norman L. Beyer, Mrs. Mabel Carr, James F. Corn, Miss Lenda Chrisman, Miss Helen Gene Cunningham, Robert H. Denker, Miss Florence Hudson, Paul Lebeck, Charles D. Matheny, Billy Merritt.

Melvin Peterman, Mrs. Jane Rohrbach, Miss Martha Ann Sprouse, Mrs. Jean Wolfenbarger, Miss Marie Wood, Mrs. Grace Wray, Mrs. Wanda Zimmerman, Miss Lillian Allen, Mrs. Anna Cook, Mrs. Violet Longnecker.

Mrs. Hazel Jobe, Mrs. Esther McColister, Mrs. Charlotte Terwilliger, Miss Mildred Kuhlman, Miss Alma Lehman, Mrs. Irene Sappington, Mrs. Marna Howard, Mrs. Rachel Sappington, Miss Rebecca Zey.

Mrs. Helen Imhoff, Mrs. Beulah Umbarger, Mrs. Verna Kaiser, Mrs. Helen Simpson, Miss Lela Zea, Mrs. Judy Gray, Mrs. Virginia Lee McDonald, and Mrs. Velma Rose Block.

Observe World Day Of Prayer

GREEN RIDGE — Community World Day of Prayer worship services were conducted at 10 a.m. March 7 at the Presbyterian Church. A brunch was served prior to the service.

The program theme was "Growing Together in Christ." Mrs. Dorothy B. Hinken, president of the Green Ridge United Presbyterian Women's Association, conducted the service, assisted by Mrs. Roland Berry, Mrs. Nelson Anderson and Mrs. Guy Ridenour. Mrs. George Upton was pianist.

A brief business meeting followed the service.

Sedalia Presbyterian Association will meet April 18 in Sedalia at the Broadway Presbyterian Church.

Mrs. Ralph Stewart reported the Green Ridge Presbyterian Church gave $72.00, eight blankets and one comforter for Church World Service.

The four circles will assist with the program and banquet honoring the senior class of Green Ridge High School April 24.

Mrs. Gertrude Helman gave the mission Year Book of Prayer service for missions.

The annual shipping tonnage handled at Houston, Tex., is exceeded only by that of New York and New Orleans.

Not Too Old to Learn

"You are never too old to learn," is a trite expression but still as practical in application to life today as ever.

It might provide the subject for a term paper by students some of whom upon graduation may feel they have learned everything necessary for their future.

The ancients among whom were Aeschylus, Greek poet, and Solon, Athenian legislator, are sources to consult because 2,400 years ago they made such basic comments as: "It is always in season for the old to learn," and "I grow old learning something new every day."

Graduating students will discover this is a good habit to cultivate, one that doesn't cost a dime, and is as productive as the scout's objective to perform a good deed every day.

What brought this up is Senator Stuart Symington's Washington Report which is of current interest to taxpayers. He expresses doubt that many citizens are aware the annual cost of running the Government of the United States amounts to tens of billions of dollars more than the entire gross national product of any other country of the free world.

The Senator provides these facts and figures: In the last ten years, Federal taxes in the United States have increased 71.3 percent. During the same period local taxes increased 120.5 percent. State taxes increased 260.9 percent. Ten years ago the total tax burden of the average citizen was 27 percent of his salary. Today the average is 34 percent.

No matter how old you are and how aware you are in a general sense that taxes have gotten out of hand, the above information is more specific in the area of learning something new for this day.

We are very glad to hear our Senior Senator talk about taxes and conclude with an endorsement of a quotation from the Charleston, West Virginia Mail:

"History is littered with the corpses of empires guilty of hubris and felled by its consequences: the over-expansion of manpower and resources."

Somewhere along the line during and after four years of Latin taught by Miss Bessie Bowers in Sedalia High school we have often faltered on word definitions, especially if they are in the Greek category. One of the words is "hubris" mentioned above. By honest confession it certainly was Greek to us until Webster was consulted. So let us translate the paragraph Senator Symington endorses:

History is littered with the corpses of empires guilty of overweening pride, self-confidence or insolent disregard of moral laws and restraints. Such empires were felled by the consequences: over-expansion of manpower and resources.

Indeed, it is always in season for the old to learn, albeit it is a six-letter Greek word and tax increases expressed percentage-wise.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Experts Feel Nixon Too Cautious

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — Chief tragedy regarding the Paris peace talks and the recent bombing of Saigon is that President Nixon may have missed the boat regarding an early peace in Southeast Asia.

Both career diplomats and Pentagon strategists who have no ax to grind concerning Democratic or Republican politics feel that Nixon has been too cautious, too bogged down with paperwork, too slow to move and too much concerned with Europe rather than the theater of war where an average of 200 American boys have been killed every week, with the number rising to 453 in the past week.

As a result, he has ignored for seven weeks the opportunity to carry on private talks with the North Vietnamese in Paris.

This was an extremely important period, not merely because 200 American lives were being lost weekly, but because the North Vietnamese may have interpreted Nixon's failure to talk as a rebuff, and started the attacks on Saigon as their answer to a new President who has been known as a hawk.

Cyrus Vance, the former Under Secretary of Defense who served as No. 2 negotiator with Ambassador Averell Harriman in Paris, has recently returned to Washington and has given senators important inside information regarding Vietnam.

Vance had remained in Paris at the request of President Nixon in order to help the peace talks get off to a good start under the new administration. Vance is a New York lawyer and non-political government official, who, after he retired from the Pentagon, came back to serve in various emergency crises, including the Detroit race riots.

In Paris, despite an ailing back, Vance slept in his office during one crucial period last October because of the Washington-Paris time difference, in order to be on the telephone with Washington during the early morning hours from 3 a.m. on — which was about the time the State Department got busy with Vietnam problems.

—Lodge, Good Negotiator—

Vance pays tribute to Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, Harriman's successor, as an able, dedicated diplomat. He has reported that, though Lodge has been a hawk in the past, and a close friend of the military leaders of South Vietnam, this may make him a more effective negotiator. Lodge is being very careful to be nonpartisan, neither a hawk nor a dove, and is anxious to carry out instructions from Washington right down the line.

The trouble is, however, that Lodge has received no instructions from President Nixon regarding the all-important question of private talks with the North Vietnamese. Lodge and Nixon conferred in Paris last week but, so far as can be ascertained, no green light was given Lodge even then to go ahead with private peace talks with the North Vietnamese.

It had been agreed last November between the North Vietnamese and the United States negotiating team of Harriman and Vance that this was the most fruitful way to proceed. Some progress was made in December by private talks on the controversial type of table to be used in Paris.

Since that time, however, there have been no private talks and no progress whatsoever, for two reasons:

1. The South Vietnamese were stalling until Jan. 20 when their friend, Richard Nixon, hitherto a hawk, would become President.

2. Since Jan. 20, Ambassador Lodge has had no instructions from the new President to proceed with private talks.

Meanwhile, American career diplomats point out that the North Vietnamese are probably escalating the war in order to demonstrate their strength to a new and hawkish President who has not accepted their willingness to talk privately.

—Frank Private Talks—

The importance of private talks cannot be overestimated, according to experienced diplomats who have sat in on them. During the three-month period last fall when the United States and North Vietnamese were sparring in Paris, there were about 20 coffee breaks when American and North Vietnam delegates talked off the record about the future.

The North Vietnamese showed themselves as frank about obtaining U.S. help during the reconstruction days which lay ahead once peace was established. They took seriously President Johnson's promise of cooperation in rebuilding their country, and his idea of a Mekong Delta "Tennessee Valley Authority" to develop irrigation, reclamation and economic cooperation between North and South Vietnam, Cambodia, Laos and Thailand. They hoped to secure the "miracle" rice developed by the United States after peace was established, and to have the benefit of U.S. technical assistance.

Harriman and Vance reported to Washington that the North Vietnamese are a proud people who want to maintain an independent country under neither Chinese nor Russian domination. They also considered that they had won the war, inasmuch as they had withstood the bombing of the powerful United States, which was more than Hitler and Mussolini were able to do.

It is only in this type of private talks, Vance has reported, that any progress toward peace can be made. Yet Ambassador Lodge has received no authority from President Nixon to proceed. Meanwhile, American lives have been lost at the rate of 200 a week, and the fighting has escalated to a point where tempers are heating up dangerously on both sides.

Perils of Hoeing a Row

The farmer may be closer to nature than other people, but he's even more a victim of technology than his city cousin.

Old Dobbin kicked Farmer Jones once in awhile, sometimes fatally, but he seldom rolled over on him. Almost half of all farm accidents involving tractors are due to rollovers or tipovers.

The fact is that farming is the third most dangerous occupation in the nation. Only mining and construction work are more hazardous. And even though the number of farm accidents is slowly decreasing, the per capita accident rate is on the increase, say safety experts.

Today's highly mechanized farmer can't operate without machines, and whenever machines and people come into close, daily proximity, accidents happen. But farm machinery has recently been indicted as the source of another hazard, which has nothing to do with how safely it is operated.

A "National Noise Study" conducted by health engineers from the government's Environmental Control Administration found that noise from tractors and other farm machinery can be loud enough to cause permanent hearing loss to operators. Of 58 new tractors tested at normal operating load, 90 per cent exceeded noise levels considered safe. Of 20 pieces of other farm equipment tested, 65 per cent exceeded recommended noise levels.

Quechua, the language of the ancient Incas, is still the spoken language of more than five million Indians in Peru, Bolivia and Ecuador.

Tribalism Is Shattering Dream of 'World State'

By BRUCE BIOSSAT

NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA)

Just at the turn in history when the world seems pulled closer by the marvels of science, of air transport and the sweep of global economy, it is shattering dangerously into smaller and smaller political and social fragments.

Nationhood seemingly was a well-established phenomenon a century ago. The clamor in the first two-thirds of the 20th century has been for some sort of supra-national organization amounting to a "world state" which would keep all its parts at peace.

But the opposite now seems to be happening. Negro leader Bayard Rustin, speaking recently in Florida, put his finger on the matter when he labeled this country's black nationalist movement a reversion to tribalism, and then went on to say it is not a circumstance limited to America but one that is emerging widely around the globe.

He cited the increased French separatist agitation in Canada and the Walloons in perennially torn Belgium. He might have added the internal strife in Pakistan, the horrifying blood-letting among warring peoples on the subcontinent of India, the struggle between Biafra and Nigeria in West Africa. The examples are many more.

Curiously, Rustin's observations coincide closely with those of author Peter Drucker in his new work, "The Age of Discontinuity." Discussing the grave ills of government, he asserts:

"... the national state is everywhere in danger of collapsing into petty baronies ..."

The problem shows itself in two big ways.

One is the great post-World War II tendency for tribes to separate themselves from others and dignify themselves as "countries." Africa, of course, is the prime illustration. Writes Drucker:

"... we are getting tribal splinters, pretending to be national states, imposing on their citizens all the costs of a national state, driven by all the jealousies, resentments and pride of a national state—but incapable of being an effective organ either of domestic government or of the international community. Increasingly we are fragmenting the world into governmental pygmies ... incapable of governing."

The other manifestation is the one stressed by Rustin—the mounting pressures against the authority of established, sizable, economically viable nations. Within these, separatists, acting like tribes either on grounds of race or religion or prior national origin, are tearing hard at the national fabric.

Black separatism in America is such a phenomenon. So is the Catholic-Protestant furor in northern Ireland.

Generous-hearted humanitarians, looking at all this, may be moved to ask: "So what? What's wrong with movements that appear above all to stress an admirable spirit of self-determination?"

The quote from Drucker gives his answer as it applies to tribal splinters masquerading as nations. They are incapable of governing. They seldom have an economic base or even much to govern.

Scores of so-called independent nations today have populations of less than a million—barely the size of one major U.S. city. Some are almost at town-village size.

As for the kind of tribalism Rustin has in mind, he sees it fundamentally as a device of escape, a shunning of competition and responsibility, an attempt to withdraw within some artificial shell and somehow exist—miraculously in full political, social and economic health—in the larger framework of an established great nation.

Rustin gets even harsher. He argues that black separatists, far from being bold adventurers on the frontiers of a "liberation movement," actually suffer from a "lack of social courage." They run from the battle with reality.

The same perhaps may be said for that other restless American "tribe"—the disruptive, destructive white radical students who pretend that the leveling of society's organizations, from the nation on down, will usher in the great freedoms they say they want.

Dorothy Hayden gives today's hand the heading, "Barefoot in London." The reason is that there are supposed to be thousands of London citizens without shoes because they played trumps too soon. There are just as many barefoot in New York because they didn't pull trumps. The way to prosper is to pull trumps as soon as you can do so safely.

South wins the first trick with dummy's ace of diamonds. A finesse would be pointless indeed. Then if he is one of those automatic trump leaders, he plays two high trumps. From this point on he is doomed to wind up losing three clubs and the queen of trumps unless the defense slips.

He will complain about bad luck after the black suits break poorly and neither red suit finesses, but he should make his contract in spite of the bad breaks.

If he would just bear in mind the H (How can I make my contract?) from the Jacoby key word "ARCH," he would come sailing home with game and rubber.

South should see the possibility of losing a trump and three clubs and a sure way to guard against it. At trick two he should play the ace of clubs and continue with a second club at trick three. Another club lead the next time he got in would make it possible for him to ruff his last club with dummy's 10 of trumps.

It wouldn't worry him if the 10 of trumps were overruffed. He would still be sure of his contract. Of course this line of play might cost an overtrick but who worries about an overtrick when game and rubber are involved?

QUICK QUIZ

Q—What is the derivation of the words astronaut and cosmonaut?

A—The former comes from two Greek words meaning "sailor among the stars." The latter comes from two Greek words meaning "sailor of the universe."

Q—How great a difference is there between the hottest and coldest natural temperatures in the world?

A—A difference of about 260 degrees.

Q—With what character do you associate the horse Black Bess?

A—It was the celebrated mare which carried the highwayman, Dick Turpin, on his trip from London to York.

More Working Chiefs

By CYRENE DEAR

WASHINGTON, D.C. — "I would like to change the name of the Department of Commerce to the Department of Economic Development, because that is what it is supposed to be," said Secretary Maurice H. Stans in addressing the National Press Club. A groan arose among the newsmen as they visualized such a title in the headlines.

Secretary Stans is determined to bring his Department out of the basement and operate it as what it should be — "a functioning arm of the cabinet and a forceful developer of the nation's economy." In evaluating the Department the Secretary said, "I intend to have more chiefs than Indians who will coordinate some of the numerous divisions in the legal, technical, managerial and agricultural branches. We hope to bring enough forces together in this country to create a strong capital class and an affluent middle class among our so-called minority citizens."

Mr. Stans cited several avenues that called for immediate attention: increasing exports with emphasis on free trade; creating an office of direct investment and getting rid of controls; initiating a minority business enterprise with Negro, Mexican and Indian representatives to help them develop their own businesses. He said an information center to help the minority enterprises would be established to serve with job opportunities and news about what is for them in government. "We would publish their success stories," he said.

"There will be noticeable change in the census questions," he replied when the question of invasion of privacy asked. "The census questionnaire provides us with a basis for housing needs, population figures, income and other information which helps us evaluate the social and economic conditions of our country. We also hope to solve some of the problems in the Bureau of Standards, the Travel office, the Weather Bureau, the Patent office, and also, to minimize the 4,000 different publications in the Commerce Department."

There are 27,000 employees in Commerce whose task is to link the White House with the business community. With the Stans enthusiasm for free enterprise and personal initiative, there should be more business and less government in the cabinet post which he wants to rename the Department of Economic Development.

YOUR DENTAL HEALTH

Tongue Lesion

No Cause for Worry

By WILLIAM LAWRENCE, D.D.S.

DEAR DR. LAWRENCE: I've been told that I have a median rhomboid glossitis and not to worry about it. But I live in constant fear that it might turn into cancer. Can that happen? — Lane B.

ANSWER: This tongue lesion with the fancy name is a congenital malformation and is considered to be benign and harmless, showing no tendency to become cancerous.

It usually appears as a tomato red, angry-looking, smooth patch that occurs along the center line of the tongue, more towards the base than the tip. Normally the tongue is covered with tiny papillae but the lesion area is baldly smooth.

In spite of its eye-catching red color, most people don't know they have it and find out only when it becomes irritated, as it sometimes does from very hot foods or too much whisky and tobacco.

Mild mouthwashes, warm water with salt or sodium bicarbonate, are usually enough to relieve pain and inflammation.

DEAR DR. LAWRENCE: I'm one of those people who goes to the dentist every six months, and every time I go I have about 15 cavities. I wonder if fluorides really work. I take one fluoride pill a day. I am 18 years old. — Diane G.

ANSWER: No, Diane G., fluorides won't help you. Alas, you're too old. Fluorides taken internally in any form do not seem to have any effect on mature enamel. They help only when teeth are in the developmental stages — when dentin and enamel are being formed.

Teeth begin to develop before you're born, about midway through pregnancy. And they continue their development until age 8 or 9, with individual variations, of course.

It has been shown that during the period of development, fluorides in pill form, or liquid, or drinking water, combine with tooth structures to form teeth that are highly resistant to decay.

But at 18? Forget it!

Taxpayers Ask IRS

Q — Can I deduct the assessment I had to pay for a new sidewalk?

A — No, the law generally does not permit deductions for assessments for local benefits that tend to increase the value of your property. The amount of the assessment can be capitalized, however, and added to the basis of your property.

Q — Can I deduct my medicare premiums?

A — Yes, premiums for Medicare and other medical insurance are deductible if you itemize expenses on your return.

Don't forget that medical insurance premiums are handled differently than other medical expenses. One half of these premiums up to a maximum of $150 may be deducted without regard for the 3 percent limitation generally imposed on medical expenses.

Details on deducting medical insurance premiums and other medical expenses can be found in the 1040 instructions.

CHICAGO DAILY NEWS: Vanishing Animal. — An American eagle — whose image appears on money, official seals and other trappings of government and patriotism — is being treated in St. Louis for paralysis of the legs and feet. The Animal Protective Association says it was poisoned by fish from a river polluted by man.

This bird is the same as the bald eagle that is exhibited in the Lincoln Park Zoo. On its cage hangs a sign reading "Vanishing Animal." The same sign hangs on the cages of 13 other birds and animals.

Some time ago, we recall, the zoo director, Dr. Lester E. Fisher, exhibited the world's most dangerous animal. You saw it by looking into a mirror. It too will become a vanishing animal some day unless it changes its ways.

Kipling's Workshop Torn Down

LAHORE, Pakistan (AP)—The building where Rudyard Kipling worked as a newspaperman and conceived his books is being torn down to make way for a modern office building.

For a century the building housed the English-language newspaper Civil and Military Gazette. It closed three years ago and now, with the disappearance of Kipling's old office, will go a major reminder of this writer who immortalized the India of the British Raj. Kipling edited the newspaper in the 1890s. The wide tree-lined main street called the Mall is much the same as when the author gazed from his office at the passing scene.

Yellow-topped Japanese Datsun taxicabs have replaced the rickshaws of Kipling's days, but the street still abounds with a variety of carts drawn by horses, donkeys, camels and oxen. Herdsmen move sheep and goats along the roadside.

Abdul Hamid Sheikh, a former editor of Kipling's newspaper, says:

"Apparently Kipling was an untidy person."

"He used to do his writing with an old-fashioned pen and he'd splash off all the surplus ink until he had the right amount. If you stood near him you were likely to get splashed."

"Also he was a bit lazy at times as editor of the paper. He was not above taking an old editorial from a back number and reprinting it in the current issue of the paper.

"When I was editor of the newspaper I would notice that bits of Kipling's desk used to disappear—a drawer one day, a piece of the desk top the next. I found an employee was selling it to visitors. There wasn't much left of the desk in the end."

Abdul Hamid said Kipling collected the folk tales for such works as "The Jungle Book" from the people he met in Lahore and on his travels. He was fluent in the Punjabi language.

"He has never been very popular with the people he wrote about," Abdul Hamid observed.

"For instance his works are not studied in the schools here. There is little or nothing of his available in Urdu."

"That is the main language of Pakistan."

Many Pakistanis—and Indians too—feel that Kipling merely reflected the views of the ruling British and treated the locals in a patronizing way.

Attempts to find any of Kipling's books in local shops meet with blank stares.

Slip of the Tongue Gets an Acquittal

GRAHAM, N.C. (AP) — A man has been freed of an involuntary manslaughter charge in a traffic death although the jury had voted unanimously to convict him. The foreman, asked by the judge how the jury had found, replied: "Not guilty." But later the judge polled each juror and discovered they had voted for conviction. "I was nervous and confused on the name of the defendant," said the foreman. The prosecutor said, "There is nothing we can do; state law makes it clear that the foreman speaks for the jury."

New Minimum Wage Law May Cost Workers Jobs

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — An argument persists that the minimum wage laws designed to upgrade the conditions of the nation's lowest paid workers actually may be costing them jobs.

The reasoning goes this day: Rather than pay the minimum wage of $1.60 an hour, some small-business men prefer instead to eliminate the job or install labor saving machinery.

The argument is far from being clear cut, but there are some disturbing evidences that jobs are being lost, if not as part of a general pattern then at least in numerous cases.

Among those stating that this is the case is the National Federation of Independent Business, which claims membership of more than 200,000. The federation says it is especially disturbed about teen-age unemployment.

A survey of 7,049 NFIB members show a slight decrease in the number of teen-agers employed last year. The decrease hardly seems significant, however, for 53 per cent said their teen-age employment remained the same.

The figure that arouses the emotions of federation officials is that 40 per cent of the reductions allegedly were caused by increases in the minimum wage, from $1.25 in 1966 to $1.40 in 1967 and $1.60 in 1968.

A federation spokesman was asked why such seemingly small wage increases would cause significant decreases in teen-age jobs. The difference between $1.25 an hour and $1.60, for instance, amounts to just $728 a year.

His answer was that for some small and marginal businesses that figure could represent a fairly large portion of profits. More to the point, he said, is that many teen-agers are sometimes totally unproductive.

In small communities, he maintained, youngsters sometimes are employed by local businessmen because of a sense of responsibility to the community and a desire to be helpful.

When such employers are faced not just with higher wages, but with more red tape as well, he said, they prefer to do without teen-agers. The consequences, he added, are these:

—Teen-agers are forced into idleness, which contributes a great deal to teen-age unrest.

—The amount and quality of services deteriorates. Supermarkets, for example, are less inclined to deliver grocery orders.

—Apprenticeship programs suffer. Youngsters often acquire their first training at small local businesses.

"Small business per se is not hurt," he said. "It's the economy that is being damaged. The small-business man is doing without teen-age help; he's not suffering."

In areas of population concentration, he maintains, this problem might not be so acute. But "in the hinterlands," he argues, the minimum wage laws are causing considerable teen-age job problems.

What is his solution? "An exception might be made so that apprentices are exempt from minimum wage provisions for the first six months of their employment," he said.

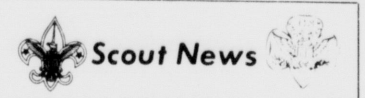

No doubt about it, teen-age unemployment is high, and despite some improvement is remaining at a rate many times that for other workers.

Junior Troop 302, St. Paul's Lutheran School, met March 7 at the school. Mrs. Wiley Walter, troop cookie chairman, was present and the cookie sales were completed.

The troop has been working on the "My Community" badge. To meet the requirements of this badge they visited KSIS radio station and the Post Office. They also took part in skits showing how citizens use hospitals, libraries, schools and social agencies in the community. As a service project for this badge, they stuffed envelopes for the Easter Seal drive.

Individuals earning badges are Barbara Gertz, Active Citizen; Carla Harrison, Hospitality; Kim Harrison, Housekeeper; Melody Schreiner, My Home; Karen Wallen, Cook; Deanna Zimmerschied, Needlecraft and Magic Carpet.

New patrol leaders are Deanna Zimmerschied and Beth Ackerman. Assistant patrol leaders are Diane Bergmann and Gail Plantz. Troop scribe is Barbara Gertz and the troop treasurer is Melody Schreiner.

The troop and Brownie Troop 307 attended church together Sunday morning at St. Paul's Lutheran Church in observance of Girl Scout Sunday.

The leaders are Mrs. Clifford Hoover, Mrs. James Kindle and Mrs. Kenneth Wallen.

on Fiberglass Belted Tires

First price break saves you $28 to $42 on set of four tires!

Plus... You get up to 50% more mileage • So Silvertown Belted HT costs less to use than even our new-car tires • And you even save on gasoline!

WHY?... This bold new design!

It's a revolutionary new concept in tire construction: A polyester cord body gives a smooth, quiet, no-thump ride. And a rigid fiberglass belt keeps tread flat against the road. So tread rubber won't scuff off. You get longer mileage. Better gas mileage from less tire drag. And greater resistance to blowouts and bruises, too.

Central State Downed In Round One of NAIA

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Fairmont State of West Virginia launches its bid tonight for the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics basketball championship which eluded the Falcons last year.

This time, Central Ohio State won't be any stumbling block for Fairmont, as it was last year.

The Marauders, who edged Fairmont, 51-48, for the NAIA case title a year ago, fell by the wayside in Monday's first round. Monmouth, N.J., College sidelined third-seeded Ohio, 63-59.

That leaves top-seeded Fairmont and second-seeded Howard Payne of Texas as the big guns in the field with eight more first-round games to be played today and tonight.

Howard Payne romped past Wayne (Neb.) State, 94-70, to join Monmouth, eighth-seeded Southwestern Oklahoma, ninth-seeded Elizabeth City (N.C.) State, 12-seeded Eastern New Mexico, 16th-seeded Washburn and unseeded Stout (Wis.) State and Asheville-Biltmore (N.C.) as first-round winners Monday.

Fairmont takes on Indiana

Central at 7 p.m. today in its opening test. Fourth-seeded High Point (N.C.) also opens its bid today, meeting Missouri-St. Louis at 8:45 p.m.

Other first-round games today pitted Whittier against Corpus Christi at 9:30 a.m., fifth-seeded Eastern Michigan against Georgetown, Ky., at 11:15 a.m., Henderson (Ark.) against St. John's of Minnesota at 1 p.m., Central Washington against New Haven, Conn., at 2:45 p.m., Wartburg of Iowa against Maryland State at 5:15 p.m. and Gannon (Pa.) against Jackson, Miss., at 10:30 p.m. in the first-round finale.

"We know it's a long road to the championship, from our experience last year," Fairmont Coach Joe Retton said Monday. "We're happy to get another chance at winning the tournament, and we just hope we will play well."

Fairmont brings a 25-1 record into the tourney. Only Wartburg has a better mark, 25-0, but the lowans were seeded only seventh.

Monmouth scrapped its way past Central Ohio, winning at the free throw line. The Hawk converted 19 free throws to Ohio's 11, including two by Lilie Jennings with 21 seconds left that broke a 59-59 tie. John Barone, Monmouth's high scorer with 15 points, then hit two more charities after being fouled at the final buzzer. Robert Moore got 23 points for Central State.

Howard Payne blew down Wayne State with a relentless offense which built a 54-37 half-time bulge and kept the pressure on. Fred Davis led Payne with 28 points and Dan McGhee added 24. Dave Schneider got 20 for Wayne.

Top point-getter of opening day was John Irwin of Eastern New Mexico, who poured in 37 points in his team's 89-71 victory over Millikin (Ill.). Chuck Lloyd got 33 for Yankton (S.D.) College in its losing effort against Southwestern Oklahoma, 100-91.

Washburn ripped Western Montana, 90-68; Elizabeth City tripped Valdosta (Ga.) State, 86-78; Asheville-Biltmore trimmed Grambling (La.), 86-74, and Stout blitzed Linfield of Oregon, 113-80, in the other first-round games.

Washburn stampeded Western Montana early with its hustle and deadeye shooting, to the delight of the partisan 7,897 fans. The Ichabods had Montana down 8-2 after two minutes, 18-8 after 6½ minutes and 47-27 by halftime.

Ron Berkholtz and John Johnson led the Washburn charge. Berkholtz scored 12 of the Ichabods' first 18 points, then Johnson took over to score 16 of their next 24 points to make it 42-23.

Johnson finished with 28 points and Berkholtz 27, and between them they hit 22 of 36 field goal attempts.

Missouri-St. Louis takes a 19-6 season record against High Point, which is 26-2.

Royals In Display

KANSAS CITY — The Kansas City Royals will be featured in an elaborate display at Halls Exhibition Gallery on the Plaza beginning March 13.

The exhibition, titled "The Making of a Baseball Team," will feature a fully-equipped clubhouse, similar to any major league dressing room facility.

"We are very excited about the exhibit," Cedric Tallas, executive Vice President for the Royals, said. "It will give every baseball fan a chance to see some of the realism of a clubhouse."

Manager Joe Gordon and 25 Kansas City players will be featured in the clubhouse scene, which will be open to the public free of charge during Halls' regular store hours Mondays thru Saturdays until April 19.

A separate locker will be on display for each of the players and will include a life-sized stick figure in an actual Royals uniform.

In addition, each of the 25 players will be featured with profile material and memorabilia collected from childhood to the present. Numerous pictures will be on display.

"It is going to be one of the most outstanding exhibits we have ever had," said John D. Kaiser, president of Halls.

Other features will be personal interviews with most of the players as conducted by two young baseball fans during the Royals spring training sessions at Fort Myers, Fla., and a continuous showing of slides with corresponding commentary about spring training and formation of the Royals by play-by-play broadcaster Bud Blattner and Manager Joe Gordon.

Kaiser said at least 30,000 persons are expected to see the exhibition during its five-week run.

Halls is located at 211 Nichols Road, Kansas City, Mo.

Three Knob Noster Panthers On Team

WARRENSBURG — The Knob Noster Panthers placed three junior roundballers on the West Central All Conference Basketball Team.

Those named from Knob Noster were: Mike Wharton, 5'6" guard; Bill Harris, 6'1" forward and Steve Hotchins, 6'1" center.

The Warrensburg Tigers also had three members of their 1968-69 basketball team named as All Conference players: Rick Briscoe, 6'4" junior center-forward; Chuck Lederer, 6'2" senior center-forward and Mike Robb, 6' junior guard.

Next in line was the Clinton Cardinals with two seniors on the team: Jay Morgan, 6'4" guard and David Steward, 6'2" forward.

Harrisonville, Pleasant Hill and El Dorado Springs each had one player named: Darold Shelton, 6'1" senior forward from Harrisonville; Jay Ware, 6' senior guard-forward from Pleasant Hill and 6'2" Kyle Vickers, senior forward from El Dorado Springs.

Bratcher Leads SFCC Records

Ten School records for the State Fair Community College Roadrunners were recently announced by Coach Fred Wehking. The records were for assists, field goals, free throws, points, and rebounds.

Wehking stated next year that five more department records would be added, but this could not be done for the recently ended season since this was the inaugural year of competition for the new JuCo. Those to be added next year will all be career highs.

Guard Ron Kiderlin was named the leader in assists, both for a single game and for the season. Kiderlin tallied with 8 assists in a single contest and ended the season with a total of 58.

Greg Laird led the free throw category for one game with eight, while Dave Bratcher paced the Roadrunners for the year from the charity stripe with a total of 70.

Dave Bratcher pumped through 14 field goals in a single contest while Dick Phillips was tops for the year with 98.

Bratcher, the 6'6" post man, led the rest of the departments. He tallied for a total of 262 points, while his game and team high was 32 in the Western Mo. Region 16 playoff game against Kansas City Metropolitan Jr. College, March first.

Bratcher also gathered the rebounds honors with a game high of 30 and a season total of 300. His game high came the same night of his top point production.

As a team, the SFCC Roadrunners led all junior colleges in the United States with the least points allowed per contest; the average — a mere 58.2 points per contest.

Grems Open Track Year In Sedalia

The Sacred Heart Gremlins open the 1969 track season March 18 with a qualifying meet for the Class "S" State Indoor Meet in Columbia. Also entered in the event, scheduled for 12:30 p.m. in Sedalia's Liberty Park, is Otterville, Prairie Home, Cole Camp, Calhoun, Leeton, Chilhowee, and Climax Springs.

The Class "S" event is to be held ten days later, March 28, in Brewer Field House in Columbia.

April 4 the Grems travel to Jefferson City to compete in the Lincoln University Relays; a dual meet in Chilhowee is next on the schedule, April 8 starting at 4 p.m.

Following a six day rest, the Sacred Heart tracksters go to St. Joseph for a 3:30 dual match.

April 22, the Gremlins will participate in the annual Clinton Relays; the afternoon action will be the qualification for the evening finals.

A triangular meet April 25 will pit the talents of Sacred Heart with California and the Missouri School for the Deaf.

The final dual match of the year will be held in Cole Camp April 28 at 4 p.m.

The biggest home event scheduled for the Gremlins this year will be the Sacred Heart Track Carnival at Jennie Jaynes Stadium, an evening meet May first beginning at 6 p.m. Teams entered in this event include: Norborne, Jamestown, New Franklin, Leeton, Chilhowee, St. Pauls, St. Joseph, Pilot Grove, Otterville, Climax Springs, Cole Camp, Windsor and Prairie Home.

The annual District Track Meet will be held in Warrensburg May third and the State Class "S" Outdoor Meet is set for Columbia one week later.

Convention Hall Features Tor Kamata, Bruce Hall

Talented Bruce Kirk, a fast-stepping, multi-talented heavyweight from Hollywood, will start at the top as he makes his first ring appearance in Sedalia Tuesday night.

The 220-pounder, who comes from a successful tour of Western seaboard rings, will oppose hard-hitting Tor Kamata in the feature of a five-event program at Convention Hall.

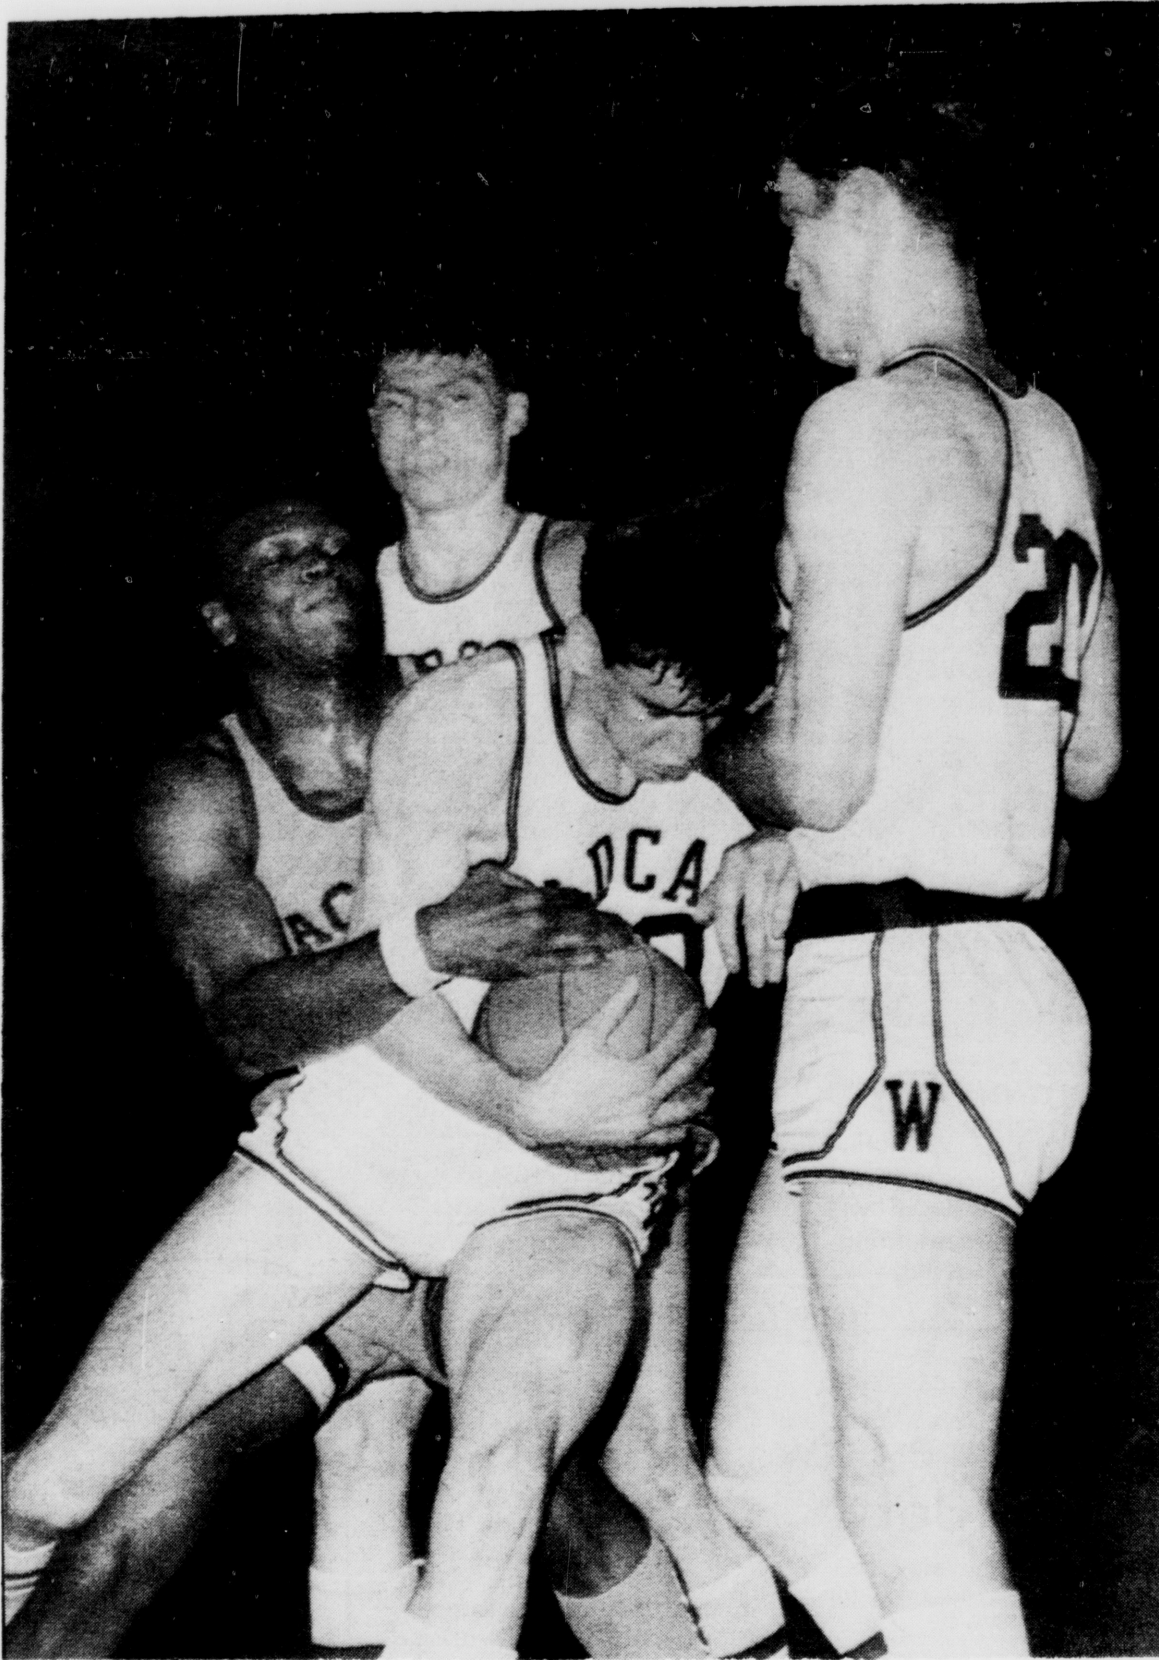

Of Kent's ring ability, matchmaker Gust Karras said he expects the newcomer to begin challenging for the Central States title within a very short time. "I've seen him in action and he's everything other promoters have told me he is," Karras remarked. "He's fast and tough and can give any heavyweight the fight of his life."

Midgests also are scheduled on tonight's card. Five of the little fellows will display their talents in the semifinal. They're scheduled for a battle royal, wrestling's king of the hill event which puts the premium on rousing power and endurance.

Going in that action at a cost of $50 each are Lord Littlebrook, Little Bruiser, Fuzzy Cupid, Mighty Atom and Pee Wee Wilson. The winner will be awarded a $250 purse.

Another newcomer to the Convention Hall ring Tuesday night will be Pamero Firpo, a rugged Argentine who has drawn versatile Earl Maynard as his initial opponent.

Other events pit Wilson and Bruiser, Cupid and Littlebrook. Starting time is 8:15.

Weaver Feels Baltimore Can Find The Strength

MIAMI (AP) — Earl Weaver, the Baltimore manager, was being asked about the Orioles' chances of overtaking Detroit in the Eastern Division of the American League.

"You finished 12 games behind the Tigers," Weaver never let the sentence finish.

"No, 1½ games behind," he corrected.

And Weaver had made his point.

When he took over the Orioles from Hank Bauer on July 11, the club already was 10½ games behind the front-running Tigers. They dropped behind only another 1½ games the remainder of the season while compiling a 48-34 record.

Weaver obviously feels the Orioles can make up that ground on the Tigers, and stay in front of Cleveland, Boston, New York and Washington in their division of the AL's two-division set-up this season.

"We can make up the ground," said Weaver, "with Paul bouncing back, Frank having a whole year without problems and because Palmer looks like he's on the way back—and I'm expecting big things from him."

Paul is Paul Blair, the speedy center fielder who hit only 211 after breaking an ankle. Frank is Frank Robinson, the hard-hitting right fielder who, bothered by mumps and an arm injury, fell off to 268 with 15 homers and 52 runs batted in.

And Palmer is Jim Palmer, one of the heroes of Baltimore's

1966 pennant-winners when he posted a 15-10 record—but a troubled pitcher since who has spent the last two seasons in the minors trying to shake back and shoulder ailments.

Palmer could be the key addition to a pitching staff which has quite a few strong young arms. Dave McNally won 22 last year, Jim Hardin posted 18 victories and Tom Phoebus pitched a no-hitter. Phoebus, however, has set himself back by holding out.

Additional strength should come from a return to form by Palmer and the availability of Mike Cuellar, acquired from Houston in an off-season trade for Curt Blefary. Cuellar, 8-11 last year, was one of the National League's big winners in 1967 with 16 victories.

Three youngsters with promise also could fortify the staff—Mike Adamson, Rick Delgado and Al Severinsen. Adamson was 8-4, Delgado 9-5 and Severinsen 2-0 with a 1.42 earned run average in 38 games at Rochester last year.

Elsewhere, the Orioles will go with virtually the same line-up as last year.

Andy Etchebarren will be the No. 1 catcher, Boog Powell will be at first base, Dave Johnson at second, Mark Belanger at short and Brooks Robinson at third. There is little chance for anyone breaking in here.

In the outfield, Blair, Robinson and Don Buford, a .282 hitter with 15 homers last year, seem set, although two heavy hitting youngsters are waiting should anyone falter—Merv Rettenmund and Dave May. Rettenmund hit .331 at Rochester last year with 22 homers while May batted .310.

It's a club that was solid after Weaver took over last year—and a club that, with the improvements Weaver is looking for, certainly could win the division title and the American League pennant this season.

Lions Seek Scout

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Lions are hunting for a new chief talent scout, but Coach Joe Schmidt denies a report that he intends to resign as a result of a front-office shake-up.

Owner William Clay Ford confirmed Monday that the National Football League club has fired 38-year-old Carl Brettschneider, the former All-Star linebacker who, as director of player personnel for the Lions, helped bring the team three of the league's most talented rookies.

Schmidt pooh-poohed a statement by Brettschneider to Detroit News columnist Pete Waldmeir that General Manager "Russ Thomas and owner Bill Ford have as much as told Joe Schmidt that he is going to be fired after next season. So Joe is going to beat them to the punch and quit."

Pirates Defeat Cards

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Bob Robertson, Pittsburgh's rookie first baseman, unloaded a long two-run homer, drove in another run with a single and then suffered a knee injury Monday as the Pirates shut out the St. Louis Cardinals 6-0.

The 22-year-old Robertson, out all last season because of a kidney obstruction that required surgery, slammed a tremendous home run off rookie Cardinal left-hander Andy Martin in the first inning.

When he slid into third base after his run-scoring hit off the same pitcher in the second inning, he twisted his knee and limped off the field. X rays were to be taken as a precautionary measure.

The Pirates, gaining their third victory in four exhibition games, got four-hit pitching from John Hartenstein, Barry Houser and Larry Killingworth.

Pittsburgh put the game away with five runs off Martin in the first two innings.

Boys' Club Season Ends

The Boys' Club Basketball Leagues ended Sunday before an almost capacity crowd in the Agriculture Building. The fifth graders certainly gave the spectators a fine display of basketball with remarkable improvement from their first game of the season.

The Jungle Cat League fifth grade championship was won by the Tigers coached by Dorsey Martin. The Warrior League sixth grade championship was taken by the Cherokees coached by Howard Bechtel. The Ruminant League seventh grade championship was claimed by the Elks, coached by Aaron Johnson and his son Dennis.

The Boys' Club Basketball League would not have started this year had it not been for the State Fair Community College offering their basketball facilities to the club. The successful season can be credited to several good and faithful workers who have donated their time with Paul Klover as Basketball Director, Chuck Zimmerman — Scorekeeper, Joseph Fulks — Timekeeper, Woody Simmons' wonderful assistance in cleaning up the Agriculture Building after the Saturday games, Coach Paul Schwartz's referee staff, and all 18 coaches.

KC Royals Take Third Of Season

POMPAHO BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The Washington Senators managed to get men on base Monday but still failed to get them around as they stranded 11 and lost their fourth straight game under Manger Ted Williams, 4-0 to the Kansas City Royals.

The Royals, who beat the Senators for the third straight day, received shutout pitching from Galen Cisco, Steve Jones and Larry Sherry.

The Royals scored in the second inning on a walk to Paul Schaal and Jackie Hernandez' double. A walk to Pat Kelly with the bases loaded forced in a run in the fifth and they scored two more runs off Barry Moore in the sixth on three hits, including a double by Schaal.

Jones, drafted from the Senators in the expansion election, walked one in three hitless innings.

POLLY'S POINTERS

Some Ways to Shorten Permanent Press Pants

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY—My Pointer is for Mr. E. P. H. who wanted to know how to shorten trousers with permanent press creases. First, turn the cuffs down and cut them off with pink shears just above the seam line. Leave the cuffs intact and set aside. Cut the required amount off the legs after carefully measuring. Sew the original cuff back on again by sewing behind the cuff, where the stitching cannot be seen. I use the zigzag stitch on my machine so the seam is flat. The cuff is to the inside and the pant leg to the outside when stitching. Be sure to have seam to seam and crease on crease when you stitch. You can only shorten by one or two inches if the legs are tapered because the legs will be wider than the cuffs. When finished, turn cuff up and tack at corners so it will stay in place.—MRS. H. D. B.

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY—I have a gooseneck lamp in very good condition except for the metal shade, which is peeling and flaking on the outside, no doubt from the heat. Has anyone any ideas on how I can make this lamp presentable looking again?—MRS. E. C.

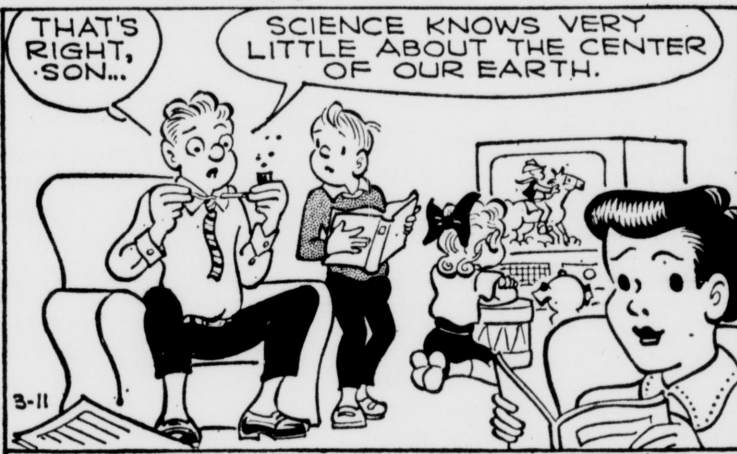

DEAR POLLY—I want to tell Mr. E. P. H. how I shorten permanently pressed slacks. Untack the cuff and take a tuck on the inside of the trousers as large as needed but be sure the seam is hidden back of the cuff. Tack cuff back in place. I have shortened quite a few trousers this way and they have always been satisfactory.—HENRIETTA

DEAR READERS—The above Pointer would probably not have quite as professional a look but might be better for growing boys whose pants would doubtless need letting down before they were worn out.—POLLY

Roberts To Host NCAA

EVANSTVILLE, Ind. (AP)—Defending champion Kentucky Wesleyan and top-ranked Ashland College of Ohio are favored to battle their way into the championship game of the NCAA college division basketball tournament Friday night.

Eight regional winners open the 13th annual meet in Roberts Stadium Wednesday afternoon. With the Ashland Eagles and the No. 6 Wesleyan Panthers in opposite brackets, they seem headed on a collision course in the finale.

The first round pairings: 2:30 p.m. EST — San Francisco State (20-8) vs. American International of Springfield, Mass. (19-3); 4:30 p.m. — Montclair (N.J.) State (24-2) vs. Southwest Missouri of Springfield (22-4).

8 p.m. — Oglethorpe of Atlanta, Ga. (23-4) vs. Kentucky Wesleyan of Owensboro (22-5); 10 p.m. — Illinois State of Normal (19-9) vs. Ashland (25-2).

Kentucky Wesleyan, winner in 1966 as well as last year when Bob Daniels made his debut as head coach, is powered by little All-American George Tinsley, a 6-5 senior whose 23-point average is tops in the tournament. Rounding out the balanced attack are Gene Smith 11.3, Tom Hobgood 11.6 and Joel Bolden 10.7.

The Oglethorpe Stormy Petrels, a third-place finisher in 1963, are ranked fourth nationally in free throw percentage with 76.9 and are paced by Mike Dahl, 6-5 senior Dahl has a 19.1 average with a stunning 525 field goal accuracy. Elmer Crain is hitting at a 15.9 clip.

The Ashland Eagles are the nation's leading defensive club, holding foes to a 32.3 scoring average. Wayne Sokolowski, 6-9 junior, is averaging 11.1 in the disciplined offense and Jim Williams, 6-8 senior, is 10-5 with 52.9 from the floor.

Coach Bill Musselman's Eagles were fourth-place finishers last year.

Illinois State's Redbirds, who took fourth in 1967, have fine balance with six players in double figures headed by Blaine Royer with 19.7 and Mike Green 13.9. The team's scoring average of 87.8 is the tournament high.

San Francisco's Golden Gators getting their first tourney shot at Evansville, have the meet's best field goal percentage with 49.8 and third highest scorer

Joe Callaghan, 6-6 senior, with 21.2. Adding to the punch is another 6-6 senior, Girard Chapman, with 20.8. The Gators played five overtime games during the season, winning three of them.

The Yellow Jackets of American International have a 13-game winning streak. They are geared by Greg Hill, a 6-3 junior, with 20.0, Rob Rutherford 15.4 and Curtis Mitchell 13.1. The Jackets were beaten in the quarter-finals in 1959 and 1968.

The Montclair Indians, another newcomer at Evansville, lead in rebound average with a hefty 63.2. It is the first team to go through the New Jersey College Conference unbeaten, and has the meet's longest winning streak, 15 games.

Luther Bowen, 5-9 senior, tops four regulars in double figures with 21.5 while Bob Lester has 14.3 averages in both scoring and rebounding.

The No. 12 Southwest Missouri Bears are tournament wise, making three previous trips and taking runnerup honors in 1967 and 1959.

They have won 11 straight games and are headed by Curtis Perry, 6-7 junior and a second team little All-American. Perry is clicking at 20.4 with a 15.3 rebound average, high for the tourney. Sophomore Chuck Williams adds to the attack with 18.1.

Caddy Calls Pros 'Bunch of Stiffs'

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) — Golf's touring pros say charges by a professional caddy that the pros are "by and large a bunch of stiffs" just aren't true.

The caddy, a 22-year veteran who calls himself The Baron, said in a report published by The Associated Press that the pros will "spend $100 an evening to entertain some doll and pay their caddy $120 a week."

The Baron thinks caddies should get five per cent of what a pro earns in a tournament and claims Frank Sinatra and Dean Martin pay better than the pros.

"We resent the Baron's charges," said Gardner Dickinson, a member of the PGA tournament policy board. "I average better than 10 per cent myself. The Baron had better stick to caddying for Dean Martin."

"It might be a little hard for the Baron to get a job this week," said Dan Sikes, another board member, here for the Monsanto Open, which begins Thursday.

I don't think Dow Finsterwald will be looking for him any more.

The Baron caddied for Finsterwald at the Doral Open in Miami two weeks ago. He claimed Finsterwald, who failed to make the cut, gave him $80 for five days work.

"I used to caddy for 25 cents a day," said veteran Lionel Herbert, "and now caddies are getting $20 a day. When you consider the job they do, I don't think any caddy is worth five per cent."

Bert Yancey and Tom Weiskopf say it's no one's business what the pros pay their caddies. "A lot of us are playing for nothing, too," Yancey added.

"The caddies don't play the shots," Weiskopf said.

But the Baron said a good caddy can help a pro who's playing well shave five strokes off his score. And that can mean a difference of $15,000 for a player.

"A bad caddy sure can add five strokes," Yancey said.

Weiskopf said, "I could shoot a 66 with just my wife along, she's that helpful to my game."

The caddies themselves were reluctant to comment after the Baron's charges created such a stir.

"The Baron's a pretty good caddy," said one, "but he left about 20 guys off his list of good guys."

According to the Baron, Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus, Gary Player and Walter Burkemo are the only players worth working for.

But another caddy thinks the Baron's bees "are pretty close to the truth."

"We put in a lot of time," the caddy said. "And we have to make expenses just like the pros do."

At Least 8 Injured In Class 'L' Game

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Both referees were injured by unruly fans and the Class L high school quarter-final basketball game between St. Joseph Central and Kansas City Lincoln was halted Monday night.

Central was declared the winner, 76-67.

At least six St. Joseph fans were injured, including four members of one family, in assaults by spectators after the game.

Frank C. Baker, principal of St. Joseph Central, said he was beaten with fists when he went to the rescue of a Central youth who was attacked by a gang just outside the Southeast fieldhouse. The two referees, Bud Baker of St. Joseph and Tom Picklar of Kansas City, were slugged with a heavy restraining rope at the corner of the playing floor. The rope, similar to those used in theaters, had a heavy metal hook on the end.

Central was leading 73-63 with 57 seconds left when Bud Baker was struck on the back. The game was halted until Baker shook off the effects of the blow.

Picklar was slugged across a shoulder and arm with the same rope and was staggered with two seconds left. The game was called at that point and Central was declared the winner.

Picklar had to be helped off the floor.

William McKinney of St. Joseph; his wife, Martha, 45; their son, Michael, 21, and daughter, Debbie, were attacked while trying to leave the gym.

McKinney said local spectators blocked the exits and slugged people with the ropes. Mr. and Mrs. McKinney and their son received treatment at a St. Joseph hospital for head lacerations.

Changes in Constitution Of Missouri are Sought

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Members of the Missouri House of Representatives have introduced 57 proposed constitutional changes this session.

More than half of them would make significant changes such as — exempt household goods from taxation, legalize horse and dog racing, provide for annual sessions of the Legislature, and lower the voting age and allow gas tax money to be used to guarantee bonds to finance building toll roads.

There is also a proposal to call a Constitutional Convention to suggest even more changes in Missouri's charter.

Last week, House members argued whether it was better to let a commissioner suggest changes to the constitution or to change it by the slower legislative process.

Rep. James I. Spainhower, D-Marshall, handled a proposal to call a Constitutional Convention. Rep. James E. Godfrey, D-St. Louis, House speaker, was sponsor.

Spainhower said he thought the legislature had more important things to do than re-draft the constitution. But other legislators said they thought making changes through the legislative process would preclude private interest groups from getting provisions adopted that are not in the best interest of the people on the whole.

The proposal was advanced by the House and now faces merely routine passage before going to the Senate.

But with or without a convention, many major revisions of the constitution have been proposed.

Three would lower the voting age: one to 19, one to 18 and one would allow residents to vote if they became 18 by or before Jan. 1 of the election year.

Another would prohibit voting a so-called straight party ticket. Ballots would have to be cast for individual candidates.

Still another would remove the tax exemption from religious and charitable organizations and schools.

Constitutional changes have been proposed to alter legislative sessions in several ways, including:

An annual session with no time limits.

Shorter sessions and with bills remaining on the calendar on even year sessions to be taken.

bled. Bills not acted on during odd numbered years would be held over.

The General Assembly is now required to convene on the first Wednesday after the first day of January during odd-numbered years and must adjourn sine die by June 15.

During even numbered years the General Assembly may be convened by the governor for up to 60 days but then can only consider provisions recommended by him.

Several other money measures, mainly affecting school districts, also are pending.

They would:

Keep the present school tax levy if an increase is defeated instead of reverting to the base rate.

Limit votes on levy increases to twice yearly.

Allow the General Assembly to issue bonds for higher education.

Limit the amount of indebtedness any school district may incur.

Tag a cigarette tax increase for schools and local governments.

If passed by the House and Senate any of the constitutional proposals must then be approved by the voters.

Colonel Hits Enemy Troops From 'Copter

SAIGON (AP) — Army Lt. Col. David H. Hackworth of South Gate, Calif., was 1,000 feet up in the air in his command helicopter and armed only with a revolver when he spotted three Viet Cong.

He thought to himself, "I sure wish I had a rifle," the Army reported.

His pilot, W.O. Kenneth Carroll of Marshfield, Mo., apparently guessed what the commander was thinking and handed him an M79 grenade launcher, the Army continued.

Carroll rolled the chopper down low, and the colonel opened up. Two of the three Viet Cong were reported killed.

Hackworth, commander of the U.S. 9th Infantry Division's 4th Battalion, 39th Infantry, was conducting an aerial inspection about 40 miles southwest of Saigon when the incident occurred Monday.

Bruised Bruins Prepare

LOS ANGELES (AP)—"We'd better be a little better prepared," declared UCLA basketball coach John Wooden as his top-rated Bruins seek to rebound from a beating to win the national title.

Surprised 46-44 by Southern California on Saturday night in the regular season finale, ending a 41-game winning string, UCLA meets New Mexico State on Thursday in the first round of the NCAA western regionals.

USC used ball control tactics, sometimes referred to as stalling; in downing the Bruins after forcing them to two overtimes before losing on Friday.

Wooden said he has thought of an answer should the Bruins use the same tactics but added, "I'm not going to tell you," when asked about plans during Monday's meeting of the Southern California Basketball Writers.

Wooden recalled the regional game of last year when UCLA beat NMU 58-49 and commented "They gave us trouble last year with the same type of play," as he referred again to the control game.

Wooden was asked that if he had considered taking 7-foot-1 Lew Alcindor out of the Saturday night game to change its tempo.

"I did think about that," Wooden replied, "but how we do in the tournament depends on Alcindor."

The UCLA coach did see a bright note in the defeat, saying, "I don't believe we've been real sharp and needed something. The overtime (against California) and double overtime apparently didn't do the job. Maybe this will."

Barrett To K-State

MANHATTAN, Kan. (AP) — Eernie Barrett, former basketball star at Kansas State University, will succeed H. B. "Bebe" Lee as athletic director at K-State.

Lee has resigned, effective May 1, to enter private business.

Barrett, 39, joined the K-State athletic department staff in 1958 and became assistant athletic director in 1963. He said his appointment as director Monday was "a dream come true."

A native of Wellington, Kan., Barrett was leading scorer and captain of the 1950-51 team which won the conference title and lost to Kentucky in the NCAA championship finals at Minneapolis.

Barrett served two years in the Air Force and played two seasons of professional basketball with the Boston Celtics before returning to Kansas State.

Summary of Weather For 1968

As far as rainfall was concerned, 1968 was just about as near normal as possible — the average rainfall for this area, based on a 25-year survey, is 40.87 inches, and last year the total was 40.83 inches.

And despite some apprehension as to the amount of rainfall evidenced in June and early July, the rains spaced themselves out in a manner that produced some of the biggest crop yields in history.

In late June and early July officials were considering seeking disaster status for the county. On July 18, a heavy rain fell, scattered, throughout the county and Sedalia registered 1.16 inches. On this promise of more rain officials delayed the disaster status call and on July 25, the drought was broken.

July 25 went on record as having the heaviest rainfall of any day of the year — 4.40 inches in Sedalia. In the Beaman area it was reported that up to 7 inches fell. At any rate, the county was covered, and Flat Creek was flooded. The flood did little damage, however, because corn was high enough to withstand a few inches of water on the ground.

July received the highest amount of rainfall of any month — 8.97 inches. Second highest was May, with 6.31 inches, and third highest was September, with 5.68 inches. December recorded 4.24 inches.

The thermometer dipped to zero or below four times during the year. Coldest day was Jan. 17, with a record 13 degrees below zero. The temperature was six below zero Dec. 31, four below on Jan. 1 and zero on Jan. 8.

Hottest days were Aug. 7, 8 and 23, when the temperature rose to 95.

Girl Hunting is Good In Supermarket Aisles

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Jumping to conclusions:

The office wolf is being replaced by the supermarket wolf. He prowls the aisles with his small shopping cart looking for new conquests. Why does he haunt the supermarkets? For the same reason that sailors in summer go rowboating in Central Park—because that's where the girls are.

If you want to be on the safe side, never buy a secondhand car from a salesman who wears a diamond ring.

If the pocket watch isn't going to stage a comeback, why do clothiers keep turning out suits with watch pockets in them? They are about as useless today as earmuffs on hens.

Girls who graduate from parochial schools have better penmanship than those who went to public schools.

People who voluntarily live in the suburbs are masochists. They complain about being prisoners of a railroad timetable, but actually they enjoy this form of punishment. In some mysterious way the suffering makes them feel noble.

I always wonder why pigeons like to hang around church steps but never stroll in and listen to a sermon. Perhaps it is because, unlike people, they lead such simple lives they don't need sermons.

Why is it that no airline hostesses have developed into champion long-distance runners? After all, many of them now dog trot from New York to Los Angeles on jet flights.
